² As part of the symposium programme, we would like to invite all participants to take part in our International Food & Culture Lunch — a relaxed and informal gathering celebrating the diversity of our academic community.

Each participating university or faculty is warmly encouraged to prepare a short presentation introducing their home country, accompanied by traditional food and drinks that are typical of their region or culture. Whether it is something sweet or savoury, a traditional snack, a local delicacy, a regional drink or even a favourite beer — all contributions are welcome!

This is a wonderful opportunity to share a piece of your homeland with colleagues from across the symposium, spark conversations and create lasting memories beyond the lecture halls. We look forward to tasting the world together!
